

Letter of Recommendation for Civil Engineer Sample

To whom it may concern,

It's a matter of immense pleasure for me to write this letter recommending Ramesh Thapa for the Master's program in civil engineering at IIT Bombay. As his professor at the International Centre of Applied Sciences, I had the joy of teaching him for three years while he pursued his Bachelor's degree. His enthusiastic and inquisitive persona grabbed my attention on his very first day at college, and he later turned out to be one of my brightest students.

Ramesh is an extremely hardworking and goal-driven student who doesn't mind spending extra hours poring through books and online resources to study every concept to the tiniest detail. While he was pursuing his Bachelor's at ICAS, he was consistently one of the top scorers in his class.

However, his exceptional academic performance wasn't due to his tireless efforts alone. Ramesh also has a strong mind for problem-solving and analytical thinking. He grasped the most complex thermodynamics and mass transfer theories without much trouble, and his presentations have always been very detailed and explanatory.

Ramesh is quite determined about his goal to innovate and develop new infrastructure solutions. Throughout the session, we've had multiple discussions regarding his career plans, and I believe he has everything it takes to be a successful innovator. During his third year with us, he also bagged an internship with Pool Café and Hospitality Limited. I'm sure his efforts will take him far ahead in his career and help him achieve his dream.

Ramesh has always demonstrated a key interest in practical learning.

He prefers to learn from hands-on experiences and led several group projects while pursuing his bachelor's degree. Speaking of group projects, I should also mention his amazing leadership and organizational skills. Every single of his projects went smoothly, and he seems to be innately skilled at assigning everyone to the right tasks based on their strengths.

As a person, Ramesh is extremely optimistic and strong-willed. He doesn't shy away from challenges, and manages to keep a level head even under pressure. I have the utmost personal and professional respect for him – it's dedicated students like Ramesh who make my teaching career so fulfilling.

I can vouch for Ramesh without any reservations. With his optimism, passion, creativity, and hard work, he'd be a great fit for your esteemed institution. Pursuing his Master's at IIT Bombay will give him the necessary professional and global exposure, helping him unlock his full potential. If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to reach out to me.

Yours sincerely,

Prof. Vinayak Singh,

International Centre of Applied Sciences

Phone:

Email: